Background

The Council of Europe (CoE) Programme for Human Rights Education for Legal Professionals (HELP)¹ supports the CoE member states in implementing European human rights standards at the national level, focusing on the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR), the European Social Charter, other key CoE instruments, and, since 2015, relevant EU legal framework. This is done by raising the capacities of professionals to apply those instruments in their daily work.

The objective of HELP is to provide high quality education on human rights to judges, prosecutors and lawyers throughout Europe, and beyond. Law enforcement authorities such as police and prison staff may also be targeted by HELP. Thanks to HELP courses, legal professionals can better protect human rights on a national level and keep up to date with the ever-evolving standards and case law of the European Courts: The European Court of Human Rights and the Court of Justice of the EU. HELP courses specifically designed for EU countries increasingly incorporate relevant EU legal content.

HELP's three pillars are:

1. A European Network of national training institutions for judges, prosecutors and lawyers in the 46 CoE member states, and beyond.
2. Free online courses on human rights hosted on an e-learning platform.
3. A human rights training methodology for (mainly) legal professionals.

The Judicial Training on Rule of Law and Fundamental Rights Project

The Joint EU-CoE Judicial Training on Rule of Law and Fundamental Rights Project (RoL Frights) is funded by the European Union's Justice Programme (2021-2027) and administered by the Council of Europe (CoE) from November 2022 to November 2024.

The objective of the EU-CoE Project is to contribute to the effective and coherent application of European law in the areas of rule of law, criminal law, and fundamental rights, as enshrined in the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights and in the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR). To achieve this objected, the project aims to strengthen the capacity of EU justice institutions (multipliers) and the knowledge and skills of justice professionals. Additionally, the project aims to strengthen the HELP Network in the EU and the capacity of network members to effectively implement the HELP Methodology and Courses. Through targeted capacity-building initiatives, the RoL Frights project aims to advance the application of European law and promote the rule of law and fundamental rights across European jurisdictions.

The HELP Course on Freedom of Expression

In the European system of human rights protection, Article 10 of the ECHR safeguards freedom of expression. However, this right can sometimes clash with other rights enshrined in the ECHR, such as the right to privacy, conscience, and religion. Conflicts may also arise when authorities seek to uphold interests outlined in Article 10(2) of the ECHR, such as national security or public health. In such cases, the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR) undertakes a careful balancing act to determine the priority of one right or interest over another. This balancing process, which considers the significance of freedom of expression, underscores its fundamental importance.

The ECtHR has developed extensive jurisprudence concerning the application of Article 10. When adjudicating cases involving freedom of expression, national courts are required to adhere to the principles established by the ECtHR. Therefore, a comprehensive understanding of the relevant ECtHR jurisprudence is essential for these courts.

This free online HELP course aims to provide legal professionals, as well as other relevant practitioners and university students, with the necessary knowledge and skills to understand European regulations regarding freedom of expression. Moreover, it seeks to facilitate the effective application of Article 10 of the ECHR within national contexts.

About the Course

The HELP course is a comprehensive course, aiming to increase the knowledge of legal professionals and other relevant stakeholders on the applicable international and European (CoE and EU) standards. The course provides information about the most important instruments at international and European level, and about how they are being implemented in practice across Europe and beyond. The course has been tailored to meet the learning needs of legal and other relevant professionals working on freedom of expression.

The course, initially developed in 2016, was updated and modernised jointly with the Council of Europe Information Society Department, within the framework of the action "Freedom of Expression and Freedom of the Media in South-East Europe \(JUFREX\)", as part of the Joint Program of the European Union and the Council of Europe "Horizontal Facility for the Western Balkans and Turkey II". A senior lawyer from the Registry of the European Court of Human Rights contributed to updating the course.

Comprising four substantive modules, the course begins with an introduction to Article 10 of the ECHR and the fundamental principles guiding its application. Subsequent modules offer an overview of the ECtHR's approach to topics frequently addressed under Article 10. The course's total duration is approximately nine hours.

The topics are explored in a practical way by using presentations, interactive screens, knowledge tests and reflective exercises, enabling the users to apply the gained knowledge and skills.

Target Audience

The course is primarily addressed to all legal professionals (judges, prosecutors, lawyers or court staff). It can also be used by other public authorities, including national human rights institutions, as well as civil society organisations, university students etc.

When contextualised to the national legislation and challenges, HELP courses address the training needs identified by various Council of Europe monitoring mechanisms and support the implementation of ECtHR judgments pending execution. They also contribute to the objectives set in the EU Judicial Training Strategy.
